Questions

1. a. He used the "dust from the ground" (Gen. 2:7).
b. What is another way we know this to be true besides from the Bible? When we die, our bodies return to dust (Gen. 3:19).
c. How can we know that man did not evolve? Because man did not begin to live until God breathed the breath of life into his nostrils. When God did this, Adam was already a man.
2. a. We are a part of this creation and so we need it to survive.
b. We came from the ground and need what the ground produces to live, as do all other living creatures.
3. a. He caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam.
b. He took some of his substance, formed it into a woman, and brought her to the man.
4. a. As a companion for Adam, since it was not good for the man to be alone (2:18).
b. As Adam's helper, his equal and his peer, but under his headship. They were to have a family together and they were to rule over the animals.

Gospel: God shows His kindness to Adam from the beginning by taking care of his need for companionship. He does the same to us by providing for our greatest need - salvation. Adam fell away from the Lord, and because he is our father, we fell into sin with him. But God sent His Son into the world to be a second Adam, One who would do what the first Adam failed to do: obey. If we turn from our sin and believe in Jesus, we will be saved.
